

BAD BOY Unleashed is an optional companion product to the BAD BOY Xtreme and Express products and does not operate as a standalone device.

Step 1

Refer to the BAD BOY Unleashed Installation Guide for connecting and installing your Wi-Fi device.

Step 2

Observe that the Power and LAN LEDs illuminate. At this point, all of the Signal Strength LEDs should be off. See Fig 1 for LED location.

Step 3

Ensuring that the Wi-Fi device being used by the laptop is enabled, select the 'Bad Boy' hotspot access point and connect using WPA and enter the default Preshared Key 'password' (case sensitive and without the quotes). You should now be connected. See Fig 2. Verify that a connection exists by observing the Signal Strength LEDs illuminating on Unleashed.

Step 4

Verify operation by accessing several websites. Your Unleashed is now operational. Congratulations, you are now connected.

Continue with the following steps to change the default hotspot name and security settings to something unique for your setup.

Step 5

Open a browser and enter 'unleashed.wifi' in the address bar and press 'Enter'. Or you can enter 'http://10.20.30.2'. See Fig 3. Create a bookmark for ease of future access. When the login screen appears, enter the default User Name: 'badboy' and Password: 'badboy' (case sensitive and without the quotes). See Fig 4. If you wish, you can go to the 'System' tab to change the User Name and Password to something else.

Step 6

Select the Link Setup tab. In the SSID field, enter a new name for your hotspot (i.e. 'Aquaholic'). For channel selection, use only channels 1, 6 or 11. While included, channel bandwidth overlapping prevents the use of all other channels. On the HP (high power) model, a power level slider is available to adjust the size of your coverage area. Select the security type (i.e. WPA) and a password (i.e. 'waterdrinker'). Click the 'Apply' button to save and activate your new settings. See Fig 5. A progress bar will display at the top of the page. Note: The current wireless connection will be lost due to the new settings just activated.

Step 7

Log onto your new hotspot (i.e. 'Aquaholic') by selecting your new hotspot name from your computer's wireless list and entering your new security credentials (i.e. 'waterdrinker'). You should now be connected. Verify operation by accessing several websites.

Congratulations, you have now completed setup.

For more information on this BAD BOY's operation and features, refer to the BAD BOY Unleashed User Guide at www.bitstorm.com under Support.

